Board of Mayor and Aldermen.

The adjourned meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen took place on Tuesday, May 14th. The two subjects before it were the McDaniel pond and the proposed reduction of toll on building material and tobacco arriving from Hopkinsville by the Granger wagon train.

Both these subjects elicited considerable discussion, which we are unable to give in extenso, having been absent from the earlier portion of the meeting through a misunderstanding. The following are the motions carried on these two matters:

The pond question—Moved by Ald. Keese: That the McDaniel pond be drained by a well, as estimated by J. B. Tapscott, engineer, put the building of a sewer as contemplated at a price of $3,100 to $5,000; that if the property-holder objects to the digging of a well to drain the pond, the Street Committee have full discretionary powers to make a well or wells upon the best terms upon the property belonging to the city for the purpose of draining said pond.

Moved that the Street Committee be instructed to have the well at the double pond on Franklin street cleaned at once and put in good repair.

The toll question—Moved by Ald. Faxon: That tolls on building material brought from Providence here and tobacco brought from Hopkinsville to this market by Capt. Granger, also tolls on building material already brought here for Caldwell & Shelton's lively stable be reduced one-half. Carried.

P. S.—We have to correct an error in our report of the meeting of last week, which, we regret to find, led our neighbor, the Tobacco Leaf, into an error. We stated that the Bridge Committee was ordered to report at the next regular meeting; it should have been "the next meeting." The Board were anxious to carry the toll question through at once on account of the urgent needs of parties building.

The New Court House.

The Justices of the County Court will shortly be called upon to choose the spot on which shall be erected the County Court House. The careful examination, by them and by the appointed commissioners, is earnestly asked of a lot to be presently described, and which it is believed and confidently affirmed to possess advantages superior to any other lot yet mentioned in this connection. It will suffice now to offer a brief summary of those qualities which are generally conceded to be essential to such a place, and which need not be elaborated by argument and proof:

First—It should be of easy and convenient accessibility to all the people.

Second—It should be retired from the noise and bustle of commerce.

Third—It should afford room for a building so far from other houses as to make it least liable to damage by fire originating in another.

Fourth—It should offer a position commanding the pleasurable notice of the whole public, local and traveling.

Fifth—The money value should be a reasonable one, and less than this the county of right cannot ask.

These are qualities which it is your duty to demand of any lot on which that house is to be placed, without regard to any individual advantage. It is insisted upon that the territory lying between Main and College streets, in the one direction, and Spring street and the western line of the property of Joshua Brown in another, furnishes in an eminent degree all and singular the advantages recounted.

Of course the buildings now upon the ground should be removed, the good material in them serving a good end in the new structure, and the street at present leading from Main to College street should be filled to the natural grade on either side of it. This would give us a square of ground easily approached from all quarters. The building placed one hundred feet below Main street, on the highest ground and equidistant from Spring street and Brown's line, or a new street to be opened along that line, would secure court, council, jury and aid, and from the distracting noise of the thoroughfares. Such a building as the county should erect, if located here, would daily command the favorable notice of passengers on the railroad, and on the steamboats passing along our river front, and all who enter the town by the principal highways. Let it not be placed on a lot requiring it to be sought for if seen at all; but build on the eminence named, and the town will quickly put on a new and becoming appearance to the traveling public. Located here, and constructed as it ought to be, the danger from fire or flood would be reduced to the minimum of probability, or rather to the verge of impossibility. Build here and surrounded with shrub and tree and fountain, and approached by firm clean walks, the craving eye of pleasure will be fully satisfied, while the business of the courts might be conducted with becoming order and quiet. Our next Court House should not only answer the demands of the immediate present, but also the multiplied requirements of the distant future, and do not think of investing less than one hundred thousand dollars in grounds and Court House.

McCormack, though burnt out, does not give up the fight; he camps on the Daniel property. Dr. Cabanis' front yard in true military style, his establishment presenting the external appearance of a general's pavilion. He can take as good a picture under his canvas as ever he did in his handsome establishment on Franklin street, now burnt, and will continue to deserve and no doubt receive the generous patronage he has so long enjoyed in Clarksville. Couldn't Mac give us some photos of the burnt district before it is built up? We are satisfied they would have a good sale and be a good preliminary to a further series representing new Clarksville when the work of restoration is done.

From his announcement, in another column, it will be seen that G. W. McQuay, Esq., is a candidate for the lower House of the next Legislature, from the counties of Houston, Dickson and Cheatham. While we cannot vote in that district we must be permitted to say that should the people elect Mr. McQuay he will make them a faithful representative. He is one of the best men in Middle Tennessee. He has been Clerk of the County Court of Cheatham county for many years and has been faithful in every trust confided to his keeping. We heartily wish Wash. McQuay, as he is called, abundant success, and in doing so we wish well to the people of the counties mentioned.

The Sunday School picnic of the Methodist Church, which was to have taken place at Dunbar's Cave to-day, has been indefinitely postponed on account of the wet weather. It will not take place until the weather becomes warmer and more settled.

We call attention to the sale of the Court House lots on Monday next. The terms are certainly favorable enough, and we expect a good price for the property. The lots are, we are informed, will be wider than originally intended, and the buildings erected upon them will be large and commodious business houses. Twenty feet is rather narrow for a building lot and we are glad these are to be wider.

The McDaniel Pond.

We fear that the pond on Mrs. McDaniel's property, which has been a matter of consideration with the City Board for two weeks, cannot at present be drained by any method which promises permanent results. Our report of the proceedings of Tuesday night's adjourned meeting will show that according to the Street Committee's report, made with the aid of a professional engineer, the project of draining it by a sewer, to run along Commerce street to the river, would cost $3,000 if done with stone pipe, or $3,600 if done with brick. After consulting professional men upon the subject we have reason to believe that this estimate is correct in the main, allowing perhaps for the brick work being just a little too high but, even if this be so, it would not reduce the estimate by more than three or four hundred dollars, leaving the probable expense of either method something over $3,000. On this calculation it is evident that however just and necessary it cannot be done. We may remark, however, that these calculations are based upon the assumption that a two foot sewer would be required, whereas we are in the possession of high professional opinion that a ten inch sewer could effect the drainage, supposing no other water but that of the pond to be run into it. If this be the case the estimate would be very much reduced, for the estimate for the pipe would be reduced from $2 per foot to 60 cents, and the cost of the pipe is by far the largest item in the expense. Sooner or later this, the only efficient mode of drainage, will have to be adopted, and we know not but what it would be cheaper to do it at once than to make repeated efforts at an abortive method. However, they have come to the conclusion that they will try the method by wells once more, and we can only await the results with not very sanguine expectations from them.

Death of Prof. Jos. Henry.

In announcing the decease of this eminent scientific gentleman we record the greatest loss to American science which has occurred since the death of Prof. Agassiz of Harvard University. The services of Professor Henry to science were chiefly rendered in virtue of his position as Director of the Smithsonian Institution which he held for many years before his death. His official duties in this position brought him in direct communication with all the scientific men of standing in the country. But even before he held this office he was well known in scientific circles for his successful experiments in electro magnetism. He had demonstrated the possibility of producing motion by electric currents propelled through many miles of wire, several years before Prof. Morse utilized the principle by constructing his electric telegraph.

It has been the good fortune of the present writer to have been at several periods in correspondence with Prof. Henry, and although these communications were strictly official they were personally interesting as manifesting his prompt attention to all matters which came officially before him, his clear comprehension of what was required and his simple but polished courtesy of manner. He died on the 13th inst., at considerably over eighty years of age.

Church Convention.

The Annual Convention of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Tennessee, pursuant to appointment of the last convention, will meet in Trinity Church on Thursday next. The opening services will begin at half-past 10 o'clock.

On Friday the Rev. Joseph Ridley Gray will be ordained.

The Rector of the Parish will be instituted on Sunday morning, the 26th inst.; and at night the rite of confirmation will be administered.

The attendance of friends and members of the Church from the country is earnestly desired.

Southwestern Presbyterian University.

We have received the announcement of the exercises of the Literary Societies of the University with a courteous invitation to attend. The orators for the occasion are Messrs. J. C. O'Brien, of Memphis, and E. D. Viser, of Kentucky, from the Stewart Society, and Messrs. S. B. Coleman, of Tennessee, and H. H. McLean, of Alabama, representing the Washington Irving Society. Most of these young gentlemen are already known as able speakers, and will be heard with interest. The Marshalls are C. H. Chamberlain, H. H. Mumford, J. T. Wood, J. D. Leslie, S. L. Grishy and J. E. Outlaw. The exercises commence at 8 p. m. of June 3rd.
